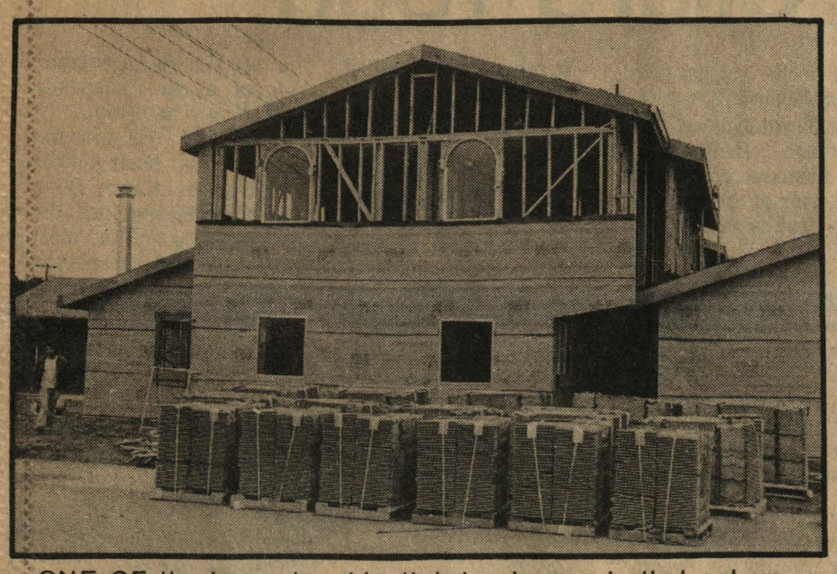
Building permits total $28.5 million

1978: The year of the townhouse



ONE OF the largest residential developments that got underway in Campbell last year was the patio-style homes being built at the end of Poplar avenue west of Los Gatos Creek. (Photography by Amy Huntoon)

1978 WAS THE year of the townhouse in Campbell. Building permits for 244 single family homes (mostly townhouses) valued at $11.3 million were issued last year.

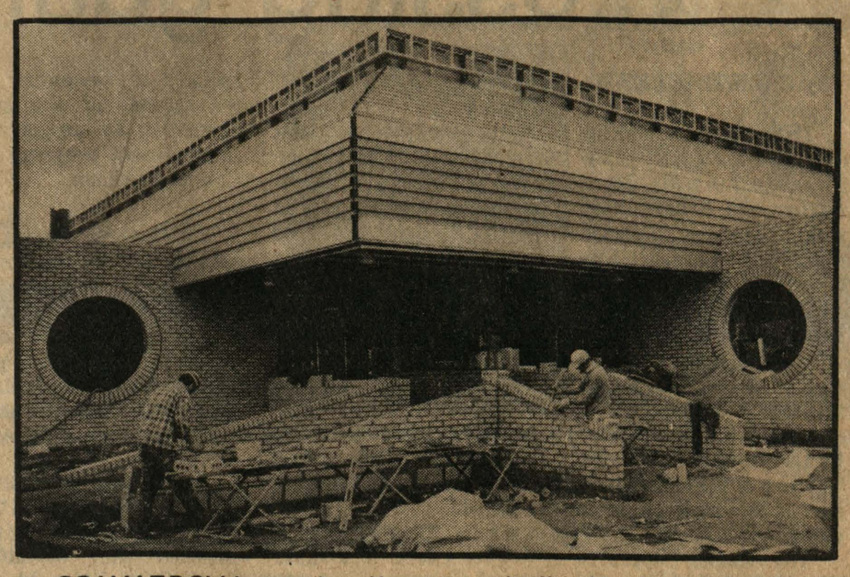
Construction of apartment houses came in second dollar-wise with 10 projects totaling $9.4 million. When completed those 10 developments will provide 352 apartment units.

The year end building report shows a total of $28.5 million in construction in the city last year compared to $19.7 million in 1977. Biggest jump was in apartment house and multiple dwelling unit construction, from $2.9 million in 1977 to $9.4 million last year.

New commercial buildings added another $2.9 million to the tally with another $2.2 million in permits for industrial construction.

DECEMBER IS traditionally a slow month for issuing building permits and last month was no exception. A total of $1.1 million worth of construction was begun with a $435,600 industrial building at 1610 Dell ave. the largest single project.

Other permits issued last month included an industrial building at 1354 Dell ave. ($213,983) and an 8-unit apartment at 250 S. First st. ($181,110).



COMMERCIAL construction came in third last year with 15 projects totaling $2.9 million in value. Several of those developments were restaurants, like Jo Jo's now under construction on Hamilton avenue, east of Winchester.

Sanitation district

Suit planned over dumping wastes

COUNTY sanitation district 4 is taking legal action against a Campbell firm which it says is dumping highly toxic waste into local sewers and, eventually, into San Francisco Bay.

At the December 27 meeting of the sanitary board of directors, Manager Steve Goodman was authorized to proceed against Electroless Nickel Specialties, 1190 Dell ave. This is the district's first case against an industrial wastewater discharger.

"Our records show a continued failure by Electroless Nickel to meet county sanitation district 4 industrial waste ordinance limitations for nickel, chromium, copper and pH levels," explained Goodman Monday. The local firm was first put on notice by the district on March 4, 1977.

"All of these heavy metals are highly toxic to fish," Goodman said. "Our treatment plant won't remove most of this and it goes on out into the bay and kills all those fish." The wastes also have a potential for harming the biological process of the local plant, Goodman added.

ATTORNEY Charles Kilian, deputy district counsel, said Monday he expects to have the lawsuit filed by the end of the week. Kilian said the district can either seek a preliminary hearing (within three to four weeks) and a court order or can proceed with the request for a permanent injunction.

Under the five-year-old industrial wastewater ordinance, the district can have the violator declared a nuisance and can seek to stop that firm from dumping further waste into the sewer system until they meet local standards.

Goodman says district 4 serves a residential area and only about 5 percent of the district's wastes come from industrial plants.

Campbell grammar and Hamilton

Two schools to be sold

By PAT SAFFORD

CAMPBELL elementary trustees voted to proceed with the sale of the old Campbell grammar school and Hamilton School Monday night. For the vacant and vandalized Campbell school at the corner of Winchester and Campbell avenue, it was the second time around.

Officials also voted unanimously to ask the city to withdraw their application to have the Campbell school site declared a local historic landmark. That designation, they feel, would impose too many restrictions on bidders on the property plus place a further financial drain on the school district.

In 1977 the school district declared the 12.5 acre site surplus and offered it for sale to public agencies. There were no takers.

But, in the last year, Campbell officials have gone on record in favor of acquiring that property, set aside federal funds for part of the renovation costs, and set up a task force to study the issue and make recommendations.

LAST MONTH the city asked trustees for a 90-day extension so they could come up with a formal proposal for preserving the building; the task force's top priority. Revised estimates by a local engineering consultant pushed the renovation costs up past $1.4 million and out of the financial reach of Campbell. Other possible means of funding such as leasing out part of the property to a private developer, are not being looked at.

The action by trustees Monday night will give Campbell the 90 days it says it needs to come up with a formal proposal.

The administration was directed to prepare a legal description and parcel maps for Campbell and the 8-acre Hamilton site and to employ two appraisers to update appraisals on the property, last set in 1976.

ACCORDING TO Ruby Giese, district executive secretary, those appraisals will come back to the board in March and the properties will be offered to public agencies in April. Jurisdictions then have 60-days to respond. If no offers are made within that time period the two school sites will be offered to the highest bidder in July.

The school district plans to have the sites disposed of by January, 1980.

A portion of Hamilton School is presently being leased by the Zonta Children's Center, but that lease expires June 30.

The 154-unit complex, owned by Santa Clara Methodist Retirement Foundation, Inc., will begin operation in early February.

It's number 25 for little league

THE CAMPBELL Little League will mark their 25th anniversary on opening day, April 21, and they plan to celebrate in a big way.

According to Joe McGrody, opening day chairman, the league is looking for people who can contribute or loan old photos taken of league action from the 1950's.

If the league has enough pictures, McGrody says, they plan to decorate the wall of the new clubhouse on the Rosemary School field.

Call him at 378-9256 if you can help.

Two votes for Campbell high

TRUSTEES IN THE Campbell Union High School District haven't decided yet if they'll close one or more high schools next year. But two Campbell commissions want officials to know they don't want Campbell High School to be one of them.

Both the Civic Improvement and Youth Advisory commissions have forwarded recommendations to the city council stating they feel the local high school is an important factor in the city's identity and in the sense of community in Campbell.

January sales tax receipts

CAMPBELL HAS received $142,500 from the state board of equalization as advance payment of local sales and use tax receipts.

The county transportation fund received $912,500.

Campbell's sales tax income compares to $132,500 for Cupertino, $82,500 for Los Gatos and $143,750 for the City of Santa Cruz.

Ellis gets job in Monterey

TERRY ELLIS, administrative assistant to the city manager, will be leaving Campbell February 9 to accept a position with the City of Monterey.

The city staffer, who originally joined the fire department as an administrative assistant in 1972, has been named to the post of assistant to the city manager in that coastal town.

Ellis' duties in Campbell have included overseeing federal grants, staff advisor to the Civic Improvement Commission, public information and community liaison.

Decision due next week on Kaiser truck traffic

By MILLIE BOBROFF

Increased rail traffic through Saratoga, Los Gatos, Campbell, and San Jose will be discussed at the next County Board of Supervisors Meeting at the County Government Building, 70 West Hedding St., San Jose, Jan. 29 at 1:30.

The question before the Board is whether or not to order Kaiser-Permanente Cement and Gypsum Corporation to convert to an all-rail transport system. Currently one train, averaging five cars, travels back and forth from the Permanente plant in Cupertino to Coleman avenue in San Jose. Fifty thousand people live along the tracks.

The recommendation for an all-rail system came from the Kaiser Study Committee which was formed after years of complaints from the Creston Improvement Association. Homeowners in the Creston area, off Foothill Boulevard in Cupertino, claimed that as many as 1600 trucks per day roared down Stevens Creek Boulevard and Foothill Boulevard to pick up cement at the Kaiser-Permanente plant.

"The noise is deafening. It's like living by the airport," said Nick Szabo, president of the association. "Noise levels have been recorded at 86 dbA. All conversation must stop when trucks pass, and at night, the noise wakes up residents.

SAFETY PROBLEM

"There is also a safety problem," he continued. "Children must use those streets to get to two schools. There have already been a number of accidents with trucks turning over.

"If Kaiser would convert to an all-rail operation, our studies show that one 40-car train per day going to San Jose and back, with an additional 40-car train every 10 days, would be sufficient to move the cement," Szabo said. "These long trains would also be moving through Creston, and we feel that the occasional train noise would be preferrable to the constant truck noise we now have."

KAISER CLAIM

Kaiser Cement Company claims that the proposal to transport cement by rail has many problems. Lee Bryant, a representative from the company, explained that first of all, the noise problem is switched from one community to another. Whereas 4,000 residents are now affected by the trucks, 50 000 residents would be affected by the increased train traffic.

Second, according to Bryant, most Kaiser customers do not have railcar

Downtown face lift plan postponed

Crossing guard okayed for Pollard road

By CHRISTINE LEWIS

THE immediate hiring of a crossing guard at the intersection of More Avenue and Pollard Road was authorized Tuesday night by the Campbell City Council.

The action, narrowly approved on a 3 to 2 vote, was taken as an interim step while awaiting traffic feasibility studies for a signal at the intersection by the Town of Los Gatos. The cost of the signal, to be shared by both cities, is estimated at $50,000.

The council approved the hiring of a crossing guard despite a warning by Chief of Police Don Burr that the intersection would pose "more of a hazard" to young people with a crossing guard than without one.

Burr explained that young people of junior high age often cross at different points to avoid crossing guards. Students of Rolling Hills Junior High use the intersection heavily.

ADDITIONALLY, Council continued for three weeks consideration of a parking modification and beautification proposal for Campbell Avenue after noting the cost would be in excess of $18,000.

Task Force '78, a Chamber of Commerce subcommittee, was asked to survey downtown merchants as to their willingness to contribute to the project.

The proposal was initiated in December at the request of the subcommittee as an interim improvement program for Campbell avenue.

Bill Hedley, chairman, said the committee hoped for a joint participation with the city on the cost. Specifically, he said merchants had expected to pay the cost of the trees. Each tree costs approximately $130, it was estimated.

Joe Elliott, director of public works, reported that the project is partially modeled after downtown Santa Cruz. It would cost approximately $5,000 for striping and concrete curbing to channel traffic from two lanes to one, and another $3,500 initially for 27 trees in removable pots, Elliott said. Eventually, 75 trees would be purchased, he added.

Another $10,000 to $14,000 a year was estimated by Elliott for maintenance costs of street sweeping the area and watering the trees. He said he hoped to be able to "absorb" the cost without adding additional personnel.

SINCE HEAVY sweeping equipment could not operate around the trees, the area would have to be swept by hand, Elliott pointed out. He estimated five to eight man hours per week for sweeping, and another six man hours per week for watering.

Councilman Norman Paul spoke against the program on the basis of cost.

"Quite frankly, when we are talking about $14 to $15,000 a year in front of a council that has reduced street sweeping for budgetary reasons, it doesn't make a great deal of sense to me," Paul said. "And I don't think it would to a great deal of people in the city."

Paul asked for agreements in writing on what the city and the merchants eventually agree to pay.

The project was requested, reported Hedley, because of the "basic problem of being able to move within the loop." He noted that a general consensus of merchants had requested a return to the original two-way traffic pattern.

The downtown needs "a new image," Hedley said. "The business climate in the interior of the loop has grown steadily worse."

IN ADDITION to a crossing guard at the More Avenue-Pollard Road intersection, plans are underway for pathways on both sides of Pollard between the railroad tracks and Burrows Road to make the area safer for pedestrians.

Esther Garcia, chairman of the Rolling Hills Safety Committee, reported that 10 to 12 homeowners have agreed so far to donate eight foot easements to the county for the project.

In other action, Council:

• approved a resolution awarding the Hacienda-Harriet storm drain contract to Leo F. Piazza Paving Company, a low bid of $68,854.50.

• presented a certificate and congratulations to Geoffrey Whittaker, director of finance, for his successful completion of a correspondence course on municipal finance from the International City Management Association. Mayor Dean Chamberlin described the course as "one of the most difficult and respected correspondence courses in the nation."

ELECTED chairman of the Campbell Planning Commission recently was Carl Samuelson. Serving with him as vice chairman will be Dan Campos.

City apartment survey

Children get short shift in rentals

By PAT SAFFORD

1979 MAY BE the International Year of the Child but in Campbell, that fact and 25 cents will buy you a bus ride out of town to find an apartment.

By a ratio of almost 3 to 1 local apartment units rent to "adults only." This was the conclusion of a survey conducted recently by Mark Larson, city management intern.

Of the 174 apartment rental facilities licensed within the city limits, Larson contacted the owners or managers of 93. But those 93 individuals control 82 per cent of the city's 3,462 rental units.

In a report to the city council Monday night City Manager Bob Stephens said the survey showed there are 746 housing units available for families with children and 2,106 for adults only. On a per centage basis that works out to 74 per cent adult and 26 per cent family units.

The stated reasons given for the no children rule ranged from "somewhat superficial" to "reasonably substantive," according to Stephens.

OF THE 36 owners and managers contracted 17, or almost 50 per cent, said their facilities were strictly "adult living." The second most common reason cited might give the county housing authority food for thought.

"Elderly people do not like to mix with younger people," 10 owners and managers declared (The authority plans to build a 200-unit senior citizen housing complex next to a large junior high school and says the proximity of the young people is a plus, rather than a minus).

A close third, with nine responses, was the explanation that there is insufficient space (duplexes and one-bedroom apartments).

Other reasons cited for the adults only edict include: pool area not fenced, no play area or play facilities (resulting in higher insurance liability if children allowed), the noise generated by children violates the rights of other tenants and too close to busy cross-street (a hazard for children).

ON TUESDAY the county board of supervisors was scheduled to consider a ban on discrimination in housing "because of age, parenthood, pregnancy or the presence of children in a family."

Consumers corner

Use a credit card to pay for service - you can stop payment if its badly done

By SLIM INGHAM

Send all mail for this column to Consumers United, P.O. Box 311, Palo Alto, Calif. 94302 or call 494-1858 for consumer advice.

Once again we took a beating from an auto repairman. He did the repairs and only two days later the car quit again. It was determined that the repairs were at fault but when we tried to get our money back the repairman told us to "stick it." What recourse do we have in circumstances such as this?

Judson Cather, Sunnyvale

The small claims courts are a good route of recourse but your credit card can offer a way of protection, also.

Assume you have what is supposedly a noisy transmission overhauled and the following day the noise is back. A reputable mechanic determines that the problem (and noise) is from a faulty universal joint. The transmission job cost you over $800 and the real problem was resolved with an $18 part and $21 labor. The first mechanic refuses to make good on his obvious mistake or obvious con job and had the bill been paid in cash, you would have been out $800 and have had to file suit with only a 70 percent chance of recovery.

If you had paid by check, it might be too late to stop payment. If you had paid with a credit card, you have an effective tool for negotiating with the transmission mechanic. Under federal law, if you have a problem with goods or services bought with your credit card, you have the same legal rights against the credit issuer as you have against the transmission mechanic. You have the right to withhold payment from the mechanic for sloppy or incorrect work and you also have the right to refuse to pay the credit card company.

You may withhold no more than the dollar amount in dispute. To effectively use this important right you must first try to settle your claim with the transmission mechanic. Two other conditions must be met, — the mechanic's shop must be in your home state or if not in your state, within 100 miles of your current address. Two, the cost of repairs must be in excess of $50. You can hold onto your money until the problem is resolved.

EDITOR:

In the "Consumers Corner" column of your January 9-10th edition of the various SUN Newspapers Slim Ingham with headline and comment attempts to mislead his readers with another unwarranted, unsubstantiated and irresponsible piece of reporting about the Better Business Bureau.

It seems strange after all the times that Mr. Ingham has criticized us that he has never really tried to find the fact and eliminate the fiction.

When a consumer writes us with a complaint, we immediately make a copy of the writing and forward it to the business person involved for their side of the story. The Better Business Bureau does not write letters for any complaintant but rather sends the original complaint to the business person. If the business person does not reply, we notify the complaining consumer and suggest that both sides consider bringing the dispute to our arbitration process, a decision from which becomes a legal binding agreement on both parties enforceable in any court or law. This process is available to the general public, all of the business community whether a member of the Bureau or not, and there is no charge. The cost of all the proceedings is paid from the dues that responsible business people pay to be members of the Bureau. The Better Business Bureau acts for both the general public and the business community to settle complaints and disputes before they become a legal problem.

Hang onto what you have, Aries

Jan. 27 through Feb. 2

ARIES (March 21-April 20): Concerning money matter — caution pays dividend. Hang on to what you have, Ari, and let the hotshots take the chances. Aquarius enters picture and week ends on note of harmony.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Cash outlay highlighted. Minor crisis can be weathered nicely, Taurus, if you keep calm, cool and quiet. Avoid impulse buying and try to rathole a few sou for that inevitable rainy day. Week ends on key of D for deposit.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): In relationships, as in bones, there are clean breaks and there are messy fractures. Sometimes you must re-break bone to set it straight. This is what you must do this week. Painful, of course, but certainly better than amputation.

CANCER (June 21- July 22): Change is in the wind, Moonbaby, and one who feigns indifference should be watched. This person can be your new weather vane. Week ahead full of new directions.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Act of love returns with interest. Reward you reap will gladen your heart. You may, Leo, have to rent a granary just to store all of your joy. Lucky Leo!

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Bills continue to mount. Don't wait for windfall — you're really on your own this week, Virgo. You may have to moonlight for a while to get out of bind. Sorry, but that's how the picture looks by starlight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Good week to mend that fence you accidentally kicked down during recent fling. It's not easy for you, Libra, to admit mistake but this time you really must. Choppy waters calm and week ends on note of harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Travel plans highlighted. If you expect home fires to be burning upon your return, Scorp, then do some needed tending now. Aquarius, Taurus enter picture and last day can be a zinger or a zero — it's all up to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): If it's just attention and adoration you crave, Saj, then get a dog. For respect and honest admiration, you have to deal with people — who aren't all bad, by the way. Week of inner questioning ends with you trembling on the brink. Go ahead — plunge.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Stop fretting, Cap. You're really in much better emotional shape than you think. Besides, if you get rid of all of your "hangups," where on earth can you fasten your dreams?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): In the middle of emotional/intellectual desert you can discover small oasis. Slake your thirst, Aquarius, by drinking deeply. Message arrives before week is over and your February heart melts.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Loved one needs special attention. Give of yourself, not from duty but from compassion. In the giving you gain. Week ends with a hug and a holler.

Film review

No 'cwazy wabbits' in Watership Down

By LARRY ENGELMANN

"WATERSHIP Down" is much more than a mature and updated remake of a Bugs Bunny adventure. No cwazy wabbits in this film and not one character even remotely resembling a Disney creation. There is not even a solitary Thumper in a screen filled with wild hares.

Originality is the quality that best distinguishes the Martin Rosen production of Richard Adams' best seller. And what a best seller it was. More than seven million copies of Adams' book have been sold and the novel remained on America's best seller lists for 33 weeks. The success of "Watership Down" is unusual because the book is not the kind that expected to make a big literary hit. It is the story of a small group of rabbits traveling across the English countryside in search of a new home. They meet with countless obstacles, dangers, adventures and remarkable characters before securing their new warren.

ALL OF those millions of enthusiastic readers enthralled by Adams' narrative magic will, no doubt, want to see the cinematic rendition of the odyssey of the rabbits. And certainly anyone familiar with the story will thrill once again to the courage and strength of Hazel, Fiver, Bigwig and their companions. They will chuckle one more time at the pretension of Kehaar and shiver at the tyranny and moral corruptness represented by the dictator, General Woundwort, the one-eyed monster.

But for anyone unfamiliar with the bok — and I am a member of that select minority — the film is likely to prove a tedious, slowly paced, soporific. Even the lead song of the production, "Bright Eyes," sung by Arthur Garfunkle, seems calculated to lull the viewer into blissful dreamland.

THERE ARE two problems with the film version of "Watership Down." First, the story is more clearly metaphorical in its portrayal of the animal kingdom than is any previous Disney classic. Consequently, the whimsy, the slapstick and the downright sickening cuteness, often used by Disney animators to pace their productions, is missing from "Watership Down."

Varsity basketball needs help

EDITOR:

For several years, I have watched the sports program at Campbell High School slowly lose spirit, good coaching and winning. Winning is not the most important factor, but enjoying and feeling fulfillment of a game is important.

I and other parents have tried to keep an open mind, understanding the coach's side of it as it's a tough job, and no new teachers/coaches are coming into school. But! Please administration . . . varsity basketball needs help and the parents and boys have been asking for it for the past several years.

Campbell high has had a winning frosh/soph basketball team the past few years. Then what happens when they reach varsity? They quit, get kicked off or just give up. Last year the coach crossed his fingers he'd have five players to suit up by the end of the season and they won one game all year. Previous years weren't much better.

This year they have height, talent and a "big desire to win," and several have played and won together as members of the frosh/soph team. But . . . with no practices during Xmas vacation, no continuity as a team, no inspiration . . . it's the beginning of another disappointing season for boys and a school that deserves better.

Move Mr. Gilbert to varsity . . . let him finish developing what he started.

I am not a disgruntled parent as the defensive coaches will probably give for a rebuttal . . . just honestly concerned and disappointed about a school with promising athletes.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Last week we received a second letter, signed by "Concerned Parent" giving similar criticisms. Again, all letters must be signed and must include an address. Names will be withheld upon the writer's request.

Another critic of automated society

EDITOR:

Me too! My special peeve is those electronic things at the library to take the place of the good old card catalogue. Haven't seen those check (cashing) machines in Marin yet!

I'm so anti . . . I never use escalators . . . walk all over the store looking for the elevator hidden away somewhere.

Those awful food and beverage dispensers. Have you tried heating your Danish in the electronic oven? More "fun". With real concentration one can avoid setting a fire or getting a dose of radiation.

Enjoyed your paper more than usual this week.

Laura Blaine Romer
San Anselmo

EDITOR'S NOTE: This writer's letter was in response to a column last week on my perennial battle with automation. The soft drink machine at our main plant also wrote asking for equal time but I sent back a reply that the request, "did not compute. . ."

We need paramedics

EDITOR:

I'd like to express our appreciation and thanks to the Campbell paramedics and fire department for their help to my husband on December 16. If it hadn't been for them he would not be here today.

Mr. Papadopulo had gone into a diabetic coma and these beautiful people came to our rescue within seconds and gave necessary emergency treatment.

We need the paramedics.

Zelma Papadopulo

Blame it on prop. 13

EDITOR:

I reckon a fellow is never too old to learn.

A few days ago I read that VD is on the rise because of Proposition 13. And to think, all of these years I thought it was caused by sexual activity.

Come to think of it . . . it may be caused by "propositions" but I doubt if it is Proposition 13.

A 'catch 22' in postal laws?

A 'CATCH' AT THE POST OFFICE?

County planning department staffer Don Buchweitz won't be troubled with junk mail for awhile. But then he won't be troubled with any other kind either.

Seems he and his wife separated and Buchweitz moved into (or maybe we should say onto) his boat temporarily. Because he couldn't receive mail addressed to his bearth at the Santa Cruz boat harbor, he applied for a post office box in Campbell.

But, because he has no address where he regularly receives mail now, he can't have a post office box according to part 169 of the Postal Service Manual.

"It's a Catch 22," Buchweitz commented Monday. If you need a post office box because there's no other place to receive your mail you can't have a box . . . because you don't have a residence where mail can be legally delivered.

The county staffer solved his problem by giving his former address as his legal address and is now waiting for the post office to verify that he does, indeed, receive mail there.

Postal clerk Vondell Kennedy says Buchweitz could have solved his problem legally. Either by having his mail delivered C/O General Delivery, Campbell until he has a permanent address or by having someone who already has a post office box sign to allow him to receive mail there.

The postal service regulation was imposed shortly after the death of President Kennedy when it was learned the gun which was used to kill him was delivered to a "blind" post office box.

According to another postal service staffer, an equally important reason for verifying a second address for the box holder is to guard against mail fraud.

With the new rule it isn't as easy for an individual to advertise, "Secrets of How to Make A Million" for $1 and then skip town when disgruntled customers complain that all they received for their dollar was a copy of an article which appeared in a national magazine.

Permanente plan would increase traffic equipment to unload the cement. Building a thirty million dollar terminal elsewhere would again move the noise problem to a new locale and would raise the cost of Kaiser cement, making it uncompetitive on the market.

A special study by Bill Siegel, from the Office of the County Executive, agreed with these findings. The study showed that it is cheaper to ship by truck when distances are less than 140 miles. Statistics show that 58 percent of cement shipments by Kaiser are under 100 miles in length and about 84 percent are under 200 miles.

The cement industry, in general, has not developed comprehensive rail transport because of the transit time involved and the variability of transit time. It seems that the trains spend large blocks of time sitting in yards.

RESIDENTIAL IMPACT

As for local impact on citizens, the study showed that the future modernization of the Permanente plant will already affect these towns. By converting from a wet to a dry process, using coal as the primary fuel, the cement company would need to have their trains make three coal trips per day.

If Permanente is forced to haul all of its coal, cement, and aggregate from the plant by rail, 33 train trips per day with 10 cars each would be needed along the Vason Branch, the report read. (This is in contrast to the one 40 car train plus another 40 car train every 10 days, estimated by the president of the Creston Improvement Association.)

The report continues, "Twenty major street intersections would be impacted . . . and these streets carry an aggregate average daily traffic of 400,000 cars."

The railroad crossings would have to be upgraded at many intersections and "the ability of local governments to finance these additional obligations is questionable," the report says.

R. S. Robinson, planning director of Saratoga, has written to the County Planning Department, emphasizing the tremendous impact for the citizens of Saratoga.

"There is also the question about the health, safety, and welfare, in that the police and fire protection must also wait for any trains, in that we have very few through streets in Saratoga," wrote Robinson.

Bob Beyer, city manager of Saratoga, has also written to Supervisor Rod Diridon expressing his concerns.

SOUND BUFFER

Meanwhile, Kaiser-Permanente has offered $700,000 to the County for use in the construction of sound mitigation measures. The company promised to commit $300,000 to the County immediately to build sound barriers along the road to minimize truck noise to residents.

Furthermore, beginning Feb. 1, 1981, Kaiser promised to pay an annual sum of $50,000 for eight years for noise control. A condition to the payment of these funds, however, is that the County of Santa Clara and/or the Town of Cupertino would provide matching funds.

The Creston Improvement Association has not been satisfied with this latest offer. Szabo explained that homes within the shadow of the sound walls are helped by the barriers. However, those residents 100 feet away still get the full noise impact.

Furthermore, Szabo said, a large percentage of the homes have driveways right onto the street, and sound walls could not be constructed there. Szabo was also concerned that the funds could be revoked by Kaiser on 30 days notice.

Despite statistical facts and figures against train operations, the rail issue is not dead, according to Thomas P. O'Donnell, attorney for Kaiser. "Anything is possible at this point," he said.

Local ROTC unit 'one of the best' in United States

A CITATION of merit as one of the outstanding ROTC units in the nation has been presented to the Campbell high school district Marine Corps ROTC unit by the national Military Order of World Wars.

The award was made by Commander Ralph Smith, USN retired, vice-commander of the Palo Alto-Stanford area chapter of the military order.

"The Campbell district ROTC is one of the best student units in the whole United States," Commander Smith told the cadets, their commandant Major William Benjamin, and student platoon commander, Lt. Denise Schweitzer, Campbell High School senior. "Your precision drill is outstanding for a student unit, one of the best I have seen," Commander Smith added.

Commander Smith also gave the unit a medal to present to the outstanding district cadet at graduation time in June.

The Military Order of World Wars is a national organization of active duty and retired officers in all branches of U.S. military services. It was organized in 1919 by General John Pershing. Each year the order selects outstanding ROTC units for special recognition.

Approximately 150 students — one-third of them girls — are enrolled this year in seven district school units. ROTC training is an alternative to physical education courses.

ALL OF the cadets are outfitted in duty and dress uniforms supplied by the U.S. Marine Corps.

This year the cadets have all-new sleeve insignia and service patches. "It was quite a tailoring job to sew the insignia on some 800 uniforms," said Major Benjamin.

Cadets have always learned gun safety, care of weapons, and drill with weapons but this year for the first time they are practicing shooting, said Major Benjamin. Through the courtesy of the Sunnyvale Gun Club, 36 students use the club's range for target shooting practice. Two weekend practice shoots are also planned at Ft. Ord this spring.

The students have daily physical exercise and marching drills and several bivouacs each year including weekend and spring vacation camp-outs at Ft. Ord and Hunter-Liggett army camps. They hold an annual military ball, participate in area parades, and present service and honor awards at an annual full dress review in the spring.

STUDENTS learn more than military skills in ROTC training, Major Benjamin pointed out. "Our stress is on physical fitness, leadership, responsibility, and personal development."

PRESENTING a citation and medal to Lt. Denise Schweitzer of Campbell High School is Commander Ralph Smith. Schweitzer, a senior and district platoon commander, received the awards on behalf of the Campbell high school district ROTC program, rated one of the best in the nation.

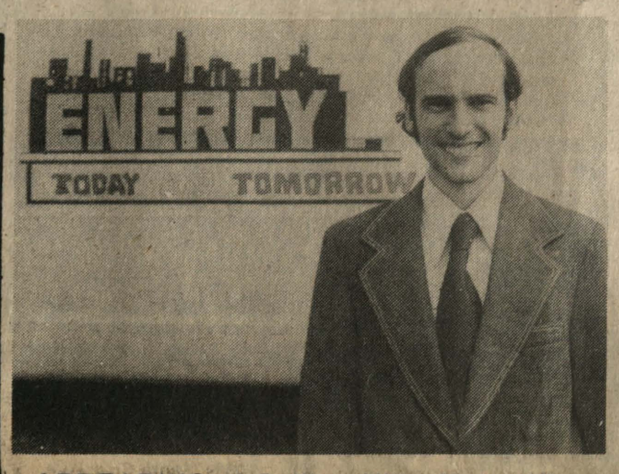
TWO APPLY FOR COMMISSION

By Monday afternoon two local youths had applied for the Vacancy on the Campbell Youth Advisory Commission. Applicants were Amanda Heskett and Steve Owns.

Deadline for applications is next Wednesday, January 31. Members of the commission must be between the ages of 13 and 21 and must be a resident of the city.

Call 378-8141 for more information.



APPEARING at Rolling Hills Junior High School today, January 25, will be teacher-demonstrator Chris Crawford of the University of California at Davis. Crawford will speak on "Energy, Today and Tomorrow" using such electronic teaching devices as an animated garbage can, a bicycle that generates electricity and an electric motorcycle. Crawford's traveling program visits a different school or civic group each day.

School unification study funded in turnabout action

Glenn W. Hoffmann, Santa Clara County superintendent of schools, has reconsidered his position and has agreed to fund a unification study which would involve 15 school districts, two community college districts, and about 122 schools.

The two college districts that will be involved in the study are the West Valley College District and the Foothill College District.

The following school districts are also involved in the study: Los Gatos High, Loma Prieta Elementary, Lakeside Elementary, Los Gatos Elementary, Saratoga Elementary, Fremont High, Montebello Elementary, Cupertino Elementary, Sunnyvale Elementary, Campbell High, Luther Burbank Elementary, Moreland Elementary, Campbell Elementary, Union Elementary and Cambrian Elementary.

"I believe the plan you agreed to at the last meeting is possible if costs are reduced and incurred during the current year and next year," Hoffmann wrote in a letter to members of the Santa Clara County Committee on School District Organization. "Elections would be held in the fall of 1980; therefore, those costs would occur in the third year 1980-81."

The Superintendent, however, retained the right to decide who would do the study and how much money was available for the study.

CONTROL AT ISSUE

Members of the School District Organization Committee were unhappy at this control. Henry Gage said that in his seven years on the committee, no superintendent had ever reserved this right for himself before.

Richard Bowers, consultant to the Commmittee, explained that the expensive price tag on such a study necessitated cutting corners. Only the five provisions required by the state for forming new districts would be studied. The requirements are size, financial ability, community identity, racial and ethnic balance, and equitable distribution of property.

Bowers also said that probably much of the work would be done by the County Office of Education, rather than an outside source.

John Shehtanian, chairman of the committee, suggested that a subcommittee be formed to determine the criteria for the study. He appointed John Anderson (District 4), Ann Bernstein (District 5), Dorothy Monica (District 5) and himself (District 2).

The cost of the study is estimated at $41,450.

SCOPE

Gage added that most districts in the county are faced with declining enrollments and school closures. He felt that sooner or later, the study should be widened to include the whole county.

Sitting in the audience were representatives of Patrick Henry Intermediate School in East Sunnyvale. They were in the process of filing papers to change the boundaries of their school from the Santa Clara Unified School District to the Sunnyvale School District.

"I think this study is just the tip of the iceburg," Shehtanian predicted.

The next meeting will be held at the County Office of Education, 100 Skyport Dr., San Jose, Conference Room G, Feb. 14 at 7:30. The subcommittee will report on its criteria for the study.

An Affair to Remember with BEA RENÉ
© Bea Rene 1978
If you're looking for an excellent Sun. Brunch, let me suggest the PICKWICK INN in downtown Los Altos — it's located on State St. in the La Ferria Shp. Ctr. It's an attractive, fresh restaurant where Mgr. Laurie Thrash greets you at the door & seats you at one of the intimate dining rooms. Why don't you ask for the Library Room — it's unique & very Old English in style, as is the decor thruout the PICKWICK INN. Brunch is served, incidentally, from 10:30-2:30 p.m. but do call for reservations.
What a great crowd is congregating at the Happiness Lounge at the IMPERIAL GARDENS RESTAURANT!! The reason?? CHARLIE TAGAWA, of course. Charlie's following is fantastic & I found on a recent visit that many of his former music students & other entertainers sit in w/his group — one playing the old fashioned Gut Bucket. There was a whole crowd visiting from Milpitas who think Charlie is the greatest (& he is, isn't he?). IMPERIAL GARDENS w/celebrate Chinese New Year's for the next 3 or 4 weeks & wish everyone a GUNG HAY FAT CHOY!
Patterned after a French Chateau in Toul, France where the original 94th Aero Squadron was headquartered, the 94TH AERO SQUADRON RESTAURANT is filled w/photos & memorabilia of this era. Mgr. Norm Sugar tells me he is incl. a spec. Sat. lunch for children from 11-3 p.m. whereby they'll be able to sit at the window tables overlooking the S.J. Airport, where new earphones are tuned into the control tower on most tables. This is thrilling for both young & old! Disco dancing in the Bunker Lounge 7 nites a week!

Racquetball - a sport played where the sun doesn't shine

By MIKE MYSLINSKI

THE FIRST thing you notice when you walk onto any racquetball court is the ceiling.

It's 20 feet high and a little intimidating. Four bare walls, usually made of cement, reach to the ceiling.

Unlike some sports, racquetball is played where the sun doesn't shine in an isolated environment. It's you against the bare walls.

You walk onto the wooden floor to the center of the canyon and discover, behind and above you, that the back wall is shorter than the front. Where it ends, people are standing watching you from the second floor walkway that runs the length of the racquetball facility. The people are waiting for you to begin playing. You smile at them.

You've heard friends talk about the game, but now it's time to begin. Your opponent stands behind you. You stand in the center of the court and get ready to serve.

At this point you begin to see why some people say that holding a racquetball racquet is like holding a weapon. Compact, like a miniature tennis racquet, the two-foot long racquet feels like a weapon. The tight strings and short, hard handle seem like they're constructed for clobbering something else besides a little rubber ball.

YOU HOLD the racquet in your right hand and bounce the ball on the court. It's your first game and you recall the rules: points are scored like volleyball, only when serving; first person to 21 wins; the serve must hit the front wall first and bounce only once before hitting the back wall. You smile at your opponent, who's been playing racquetball about five years straight. Your opponent isn't smiling.

You squeeze the rubber ball, realize it's soft and not a serious threat to the body, bounce it once and smack it with your racquet.

Your opponent smacks it. You smack it. You remember the ball must hit the front wall during a rally, but can do so via a ricochet. The hunt is on. The ball flies at great speed as you and your opponent make split-second decisions about where to place the ball.

ONE HOUR later your court time has expired. Someone is knocking on the door that leads to the court. You shake hands with your opponent. So what if you lost 21-3, 21-7 and 21-8? You'll get better. For now, your muscles ache. You feel weary.

And you feel good.

And you feel a lot like the estimated six million Americans who play racquetball at least once a week.

Interest in the sport is still growing, according to Gerald Sweeney, vice president in charge of operations for Wallbangers, Inc.

There are nine Wallbangers racquetball facilities in Northern California, Sweeney says, and three more under construction in Los Angeles. To accommodate the growing number of racquetball fans, Wallbangers plans to build 100 facilities across the United States over the next five years.

Santa Clara County is somewhat unique when it comes to the number of racquetball facilities being operated by various companies. Sweeney says there are 18 such facilities in the county alone.

BY COMPARISON, he says there's only one facility to accommodate all the racquetball players in Dallas.

Wallbangers facilities are to the racquetball industry what McDonald's or Denny's are to the restaurant industry, Sweeney says.

"We're more family-oriented. We're for the proletariat."

That means low membership rates, like those offered at the Wallbangers in Cupertino. By paying a $60 fee, an individual can reserve a court one week in advance and pay only $3 an hour to use it. Family rates are available and babysitting services, too, along with showers, lockers, and saunas.

Rob Hammer is manager of the $2 million Supreme Court facility in Palo Alto and says the place offers all the little extras you would expect a $2 million complex to have: Jacuzzis, weight room, television in the lounge area, cold beer on tap.

Slightly higher rates are charged at Supreme Court than at most other facilities, Hammer concedes. For example, a non-member off the street must pay $5 for one hour of prime-time play compared with $4.50 at Wallbangers. (Students play for less at both facilities).

THE BIG difference between the two companies is evident in membership rates, according to Paul Klatt, manager of the Supreme Court on W. San Fernando in San Jose.

Single men and women must pay a $75 initiation fee to join Supreme Court. Men pay $35 and women $25 per month for as long as they desire to be a member. Members do not have to pay another fee to use a court.

Klatt says about 850 persons belong to his club, a figure he calls a "small membership."

"We think we offer something more."

Each Supreme Court is independently owned. There are nine facilities in California, eight in the Bay Area, Klatt says. Each facility is a little different than the next.

For example, the Sunnyvale Supreme Court offers a coed jacuzzi to those who want to relax after a tough set of games.

Not all the courts in the county are owned by corporations.

The Royal Courts Racquetball/Fitness Centre, 400 Saratoga Ave. in San Jose, is a luxurious independent facility with a health club program, saunas, therapy pool and massage room. Rates are similar to Supreme Court's.

A major plus at Royal Courts is the rare chance for non-members to reserve a court one day in advance.

An idea of how popular racquetball has become is evident in the membership figures for Royal Courts.

The $1.3 million facility opened up Nov. 6 and already 800 persons have become members.

Logjam at WVAL top

COACHES STRIVE for balance in their basketball teams and one team that is sure to be recognized for its balance is Westmont high school.

Coach Gary Brinck's Warriors are a nucleus of veteran players from last year's team, a team that has jelled into a basketball powerhouse in the West Valley Athletic League.

Westmont, currently leading the WVAL with a 7-1 record, is blessed with talent from top to bottom.

"We're a pretty well balanced team. Most of our players saw action on varsity last year," said Brinck. "They're all equally talented and especially good on defense."

Defense seems to be the key for Westmont, boasting two standout defenders in Chris Clark and Artie Day, not to mention talented Alan Elliott and Mike Larsen.

The Warriors, now 13-3 overall, picked up three wins last week in WVAL play over Prospect (68-50), Campbell (65-46) and Leigh (61-48).

"We take each game as it comes," admitted Brinck. "All of them are important at this point."

The first place Warriors hold a half game edge over Del Mar and Branham. The Dons were the only team to defeat Westmont in the first round of play.

THE POTENT scoring machine of Westmont proved lethal for Leigh Friday evening with four Warriors hitting in double figures.

Led by Elliott's 16-point performance, Westmont pulled out to an 11-9 first quarter lead and went into halftime with a 28-27 advantage. The Longhorns, paced by Glenn Caminiti and Eric Johnson, held the Warriors at bay in the opening half. But Westmont went on a scoring spree to lead 42-33 after the third period and outscore Leigh 19-15 in the last quarter.

Larsen canned 12 and Day had 10 for the Warriors. Leigh's Caminiti poured in 16 and Johnson scored 13.

Del Mar, now 6-1, received its first setback of the WVAL season last Friday, dropping a 67-47 decision to Branham high (6-1). The Dons had downed Leigh, 48-41, on Tuesday night.

Coach Dave Morgan's Dons played even with the Bruins in the first half, trailing just 30-27 at halftime, thanks to the play of Tom Bell. But Branham's many offensive weapons opened up the gap in the third period (48-33) to cruise in for the win.

Bell canned 12 points for the Dons. The Bruins' Russ Chagnon scored 19; Mark Triplett added 15 and Roger Samuels had 14.

"WE HAVE A tough road ahead," said Morgan. "We have to battle every team, because we're not going to win any games by just showing up."

"Westmont and Branham are two very good ball clubs that can beat you any given day," he added.

Campbell pulled off an impressive 52-41 comeback win over improving Prospect high Friday evening. The Buccaneers had suffered earlier losses to Los Gatos (62-49) and front runner Westmont (65-46) on Tuesday and Thursday before they got back in the win column against Prospect.

Campbell's Ted Herd, who has been averaging 13 points per game, poured in 27 markers against the Panthers. Teammate Dave Drager drilled 10 points.

Prospect, led by junior guard Tim Fleury, guided the Panthers to a 12-10 first quarter advantage before the Buccaneers tied the game at the half, 23-all.

Prospect opened a narrow 35-32 lead in the third period, but an amazing 20 point rally in the final quarter by Campbell pulled off the win.

The win was Campbell's first league victory against six defeats. Prospect is winless in seven starts.

It has been a rocky road for the Blackford Braves (2-5) this season and last week's results were more of the same. Blackford lost a close 63-60 decision to Camden last Tuesday before dropping an equally disappointing 41-40 verdict to Los Gatos Friday

Blackford's Tye Ferdinandson was the leading scorer for the Braves, canning 12 points. Los Gatos' Greg Kolte paced the winners with 10 markers.

The Braves led for three quarters, but a last minute scoring effort by the Wildcats caught Blackford at the buzzer.

In games this Thursday, Campbell will travel to Blackford, Westmont will host Los Gatos, Prospect goes to Del Mar and Branham travels to Camden.

Friday's games have Leigh at Camden, Branham at Blackford, Westmont at Campbell, and Del Mar at Los Gatos.

Sod on Coliseum floor

BIG DEAL, so they're ripping out the artificial turf at San FranciseO's Candlestick Park to put down some sod. At Oakland's Coliseum they'll be rolling up the sod and building mountains up to 30 feet high for Northern California's first national championship motorcycle stadium Supercross on Sunday afternoon, January 28.

According to Harold Murrell, the expert who has built similar racing circuits in Seattle's Kingdome, Houston's Astrodome and the Silverdome in Pontiac, Michigan, this one will be his best.

"In addition to removing some three-and-a-half acres of turf from the Coliseum playing field, we'll haul in more than 6,000 tons of dirt," the veteran race track builder explained. "When we're finished the nation's 80 top professional motocross riders will have a 13-turn, 24-jump, half-mile-long track to play on."

Murrell is particularly proud of one jump that'll be nearly 30 feet high. He claims that the daredevil riders will come off it and travel some 100 feet in the air before they land. No wonder motocross racing, long a major motor sports attraction in Europe, has taken the U.S. by storm. More than 350,000 fans attended 11 stadium events last season, a figure that's expected to approach the half-million mark with this season's 14 event schedule. Last year's fifth annual Superbowl Motocross in the Los Angeles Coliseum, for example, topped the 60,000 mark in attendance. More than 55,000 seats will be available at 200 Bass, Ticketron and Honda dealer outlets in Northern California for the January 28 happening sponsored by Toyota Trucks.

Least Oakland Coliseum baseball and football fans worry about their favorite sports arena, Murrell reports that brand new turf will be going back onto the arena's playing field, making it better than ever, and better by a wide margin than it was at the end of 1978's football season. Besides being mighty tough on opponents, the Oakland Raiders can be murder to even a well-kept lawn.

WE ALL HAVE seen the many changes in California in the wake of the passage of Proposition 13.

The effects of the controversial Jarvis-Gann Initiative have touched us all in the state and we're still waiting, along with the rest of the nation, to see what the long range outcome will be.

And what have we seen develop from this Prop. 13 mania that gripped us last year?

Well, naturally, we've seen our taxes cut. But we've also seen many government employees lose their jobs and we've seen many government-funded organizations cut back severely on their services. And, of course, we've seen many cuts and changes in our educational system.

But we're seeing something else in this area that's a direct result of Proposition 13, and we probably don't even realize it — pot bellies!

That's right — because of the passage of Proposition 13, tummies of the area are growing larger!

Now how on earth could flabby bellies have anything at all to do with the Jarvis-Gann Initiative? Well, growing waistlines actually go right along with shrinking budgets. Classes have been eliminated at most schools, including in the San Jose Metro Adult Education Program. And one of those classes cut was physical fitness!

MARV ROSSMAN of Campbell has been involved in one of those physical fitness classes for the past 15 years. And his two-night a week class at Prospect high school was one of those to cross the chopping block.

But Rossman isn't about to just sit back and get flabby. He's currently working hard to get his class back in operation at Prospect.

"If we can raise the money we can get the class reinstated," said Rossman.

Rossman and his exercise band need to raise $1,584 to return the class to the curriculum at Prospect. But broken down, that figure is not as imposing as it may appear.

"We need 60 people at about $25 per person," he said. "And I've already got checks from 20 people interested in the class."

"We need people who need physical fitness," he added. "Our class meets Monday and Thursday evenings for two hours each night and the semester runs from January to June. For 15 years the class has been free, so $25 for about 40 classes doesn't sound too bad."

The class includes volleyball, basketball, swimming and other activities along with exercises, he said. The class is open to both men and women.

ROSSMAN CERTAINLY was sorry to see the class cut from the adult ed budget, but he certainly isn't bitter about it.

"That's the way Proposition 13 was intended," said Rossman. "The only thing citizens can do is go do it and support things themselves."

The class has already been scheduled and the "coach is happy to come back," according to Rossman. All that's necessary now is the check for $1,584.

"And they've told me that if we're successful in funding the class, the adult education department will schedule the class next semester," added Rossman.

Anyone interested in joining Rossman in his drive for physical fitness can send him a check for $25 made out to Metro Adult Education and send it to Rossman at 50 N. Midway St. in Campbell (95008). Or just show up at the first meeting of the class on Monday, Jan. 29, at Prospect. For information call Rossman at 742-8340 (work) or 377-9736 (home).

We've seen a lot of changes in the state because of Proposition 13, but they haven't all been so bad. And we can keep things from changing by just digging deep into our pockets to pay for many of our own activities that were free before. It's only fair!

Drop-in night set

Prospect soccermen battle unbeaten Leigh to 1-1 tie

THE LEIGH Longhorns may not have been expecting a tough game last Thursday when they battled the Prospect Panthers, but they got one just the same.

The Longhorns entered the game with a perfect 6-0-0 record this season and are the current two time defending West Valley Athletic League soccer champions. They were the Central Coast Section champs in 1977 and Region III runner-ups in 1978.

Prospect, meanwhile, posted just a mediocre 3-3 pre-season record and were a lackluster 1-1 in league play heading into last Thrusday's contest.

But the win that the Longhorns figured to post never developed. Instead, the Panthers blemished Leigh's perfect record with hard fought 1-1 tie.

"That was a big game for us," said Prospect head coach Jim O'Malley.

It became even bigger on Monday when the Panthers toppled Branham 3-2 to improve their record to 2-1-1, keeping them just a game off the pace set by Leigh.

IT WAS A Bill Pearson goal in the final 10 minutes of play that enabled the Panthers to secure their tie with the Longhorns last week.

Leigh and Prospect had battled to a scoreless tie in the first half, but the Longhorns snapped the tie in the first 10 minutes of second half play.

Pearson took a pass from Jim Douglas in the late going, however, and knotted the game again with his first goal of the WVAL season.

Mike Stanton, moved to sweeper for the Leigh game, was brilliant on defense in the tie.

Against Branham, Bob Moulton scored his fourth and fifth goals of the season and Pearson netted his second to spark the Panther victory.

Douglas and Alberto Diaz both had assists in the win.

The Panthers opened their WVAL season with a 2-1 loss to the Westmont Warriors. Moulton, on an assist from Douglas, tallied Prospect's lone goal in the loss.

Prospect rebounded from its opening loss to Westmont by nipping Del Mar 4-3. Moulton sparked the win with two goals and an assist while Todd Croft and Stanton added solo scores.

Douglas assisted on two of the goals and Neil Struthers assisted on one.

DURING THE pre-season, the Panthers logged a 3-3 record, beating Santa Clara, Wilcox and Los Gatos while losing to Bellarmine, Lynbrook and Riordan.

The Campbell Buccaneers, meanwhile, are 0-2-1 in WVAL play after going 2-5-0 in pre-season action.

The Bucs suffered a 3-1 loss to Del Mar in their WVAL opener. Jack Murdick's goal on a corner kick enabled Campbell to avoid the stigma of a shut-out.

The Bucs then tied Branham 3-3 on the strength of two goals by Rich Powell and one by Murdick.

Jim Richmond, Mike Earnst and Craig Rhoades all had assists for the Bucs.

One of Campbell's better defensive games," said Campbell head coach Ron Perdue, who singled out center fullback Dave Sasscer for his efforts.

In their pre-season encounters, the Buccaneers defeated Santa Teresa and Awalt. They suffered losses to Cubberley (twice), Buchser, Blackford and Bellarmine.

Thursday, the Bucs visit Los Gatos, Prospect travels to Blackford, Westmont hosts Del Mar and Branham welcomes Camden. Leigh draws a bye.

Monday, Jan. 29, Los Gatos treks to Branham, Del Mar takes the bus to Leigh, Campbell invades Blackford, and Prospect heads for Camden. Westmont draws the bye.

All games are slated to start at 3 p.m.

Warrior matmen out to prove point against LG

WESTMONT HIGH has been regarded as the best wrestling team in the West Valley Athletic League and they'll be out to prove that point this Thursday at Los Gatos.

The Warriors are tied for first place with the Wildcats, each sporting identical 6-0 league records. A victory over Los Gatos would assure Westmont first place in dual meet competition.

However, Del Mar high still figures into the first place logjam. If Los Gatos wins and Del Mar beats Los Gatos in its final meet (Jan. 31), Del Mar would share a three-way tie for first place.

Westmont captured victories over Leigh and Prospect (46-20) last week to continue its unbeaten streak, while Los Gatos downed both Campbell (60-12) and Blackford (38-23) to remain undefeated.

Del Mar kept pace with the leaders with a 48-18 win over Leigh last Tuesday and a 36-31 decision over Branham last Thursday.

Greg Fisher of the Dons rolled his overall record to 19-1 in winning the 95-pound class against Branham. He is unbeaten in league. Also undefeated for Del Mar are Jeff Barone in the 167-pound division and Kirk Quadros in the 177-pound class.

CAMPBELL, UNDER new head coach Paul Cunningham, has registered a 3-2 record in league, its best mark in five seasons.

The Buccaneers rebounded from their loss to Los Gatos by downing Prospect 36-33 last Thursday. Prospect's record is now 1-4.

Campbell, sporting a very young team composed of mostly freshmen and sophomores, boast big John Aimonetti at the heavyweight position. Aimonetti, a freshman, has pinned every league opponent and was the main cog in beating both Prospect and Branham.

The Buccaneers also sport freshman Jesse Alonzo at 193-pounds, who Cunningham says may be one of the best wrestlers in the league in coming years.

James Silvas, a sophomore, is ranked second in the league at 140 and won the Silver Creek tournament recently. He too has been an important wrestler for Campbell.

Jeff Seybold, another Buccaneer hopeful at 105-pounds, broke his shoulder and is for the season. He had finished third in the Silver Creek tournament as a sophomore.

"In a couple of years we'll be right in there," said Cunningham.

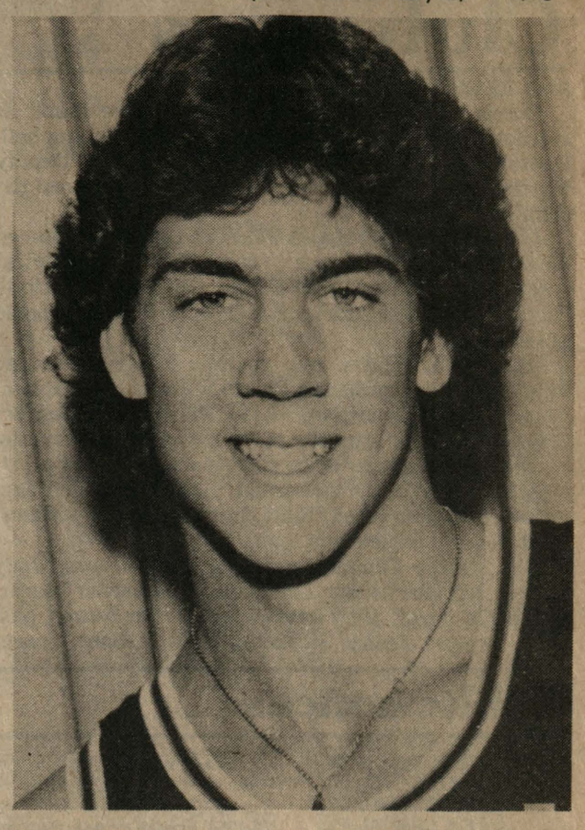
Prospect may not have a shot at first place, but it does have several very fine wrestlers that could impress a lot of peopleat theWVAL finals. Leading the way is unbeaten Mark Nieman (5-0) at 191-pounds and Armondo Perez (4-0) at 129-pounds. Perez broke his arm in football and missed the early wrestling season but has made up for lost time.

"There are many excellent wrestlers in this league but Westmont looks to be the most balanced," said Prospect coach Rich Machado.

Blackford suffered a 38-23 setback against Los Gatos last Thursday and will travel to Campbell this Thursday (Jan. 25).

In other scheduled meets Thursday, Del Mar will travel to Prospect and Camden will host Branham.

DEFENDING DON — Del Mar's Greg Fisher is the defending WVAL champion at 97 pounds and looks to be on his way to another crown for the Dons. The little wrestler has rolled up an impressive 19-1 record on the season.



BIG BRONCO — Mark McNamara, a former Del Mar high school basketball star, will lead the Santa Clara Broncos into their biggest week of the 1978-79 season when the locals test the University of San Francisco in two games. The Broncos were to visit the Dons on Wednesday in an 8 p.m. game that was to air over KRON-TV channel 4 and Santa Clara will entertain USF on Saturday at 8 p.m. at Toso Pavilion. McNamara, the 6'10" Bronc center, averaged 14.2 points a game over the first 14 Santa Clara games and boasted a 16.3 West Coast Athletic Conference scoring average after four games.

Guard tops Card scoring list

Stanford fans cry 'Wolfe' and Perry is responding

FOR QUITE some time, Stanford basketball enthusiasts have cried, "Wolfe."

That's "Wolfe" as in Wolfe Perry, the Cardinals' flashy 6'2" senior guard.

His supporters have unabashedly placed Perry on the verge of stardom. A spectacular one-on-one player since his high school days at Oakland Tech, he was considered a "can't miss" prospect.

But, like that familiar fable about the old man who cried wolf, this Wolfe has lost some believers since arriving on the Farm in 1975. Experienceing a somewhat checkered career, Perry has had to face the plight of so many other gifted athletes — he hasn't fulfilled the potential season, which saw him average 11.4 points per outing, Perry was billed an All-Pac-3 candidate last year. His elusive drives to the basket and that picturesque pogo-stick jumpshot had captured the hearts of Maples Pavilion fans. And, with the graduation of guard Mike Bratz (now with the Phoenix Suns), it seemed only logical that Perry would assume the Cardinals' backcourt scoring load.

But for reasons that are still foreign to Perry, he played out of sync for much of the 1977-78 campaign. Misfiring frequently and committing turnovers by the bushel, the sleek guard averaged only 9.2 points and shot a frigid 40.9 percent from the field. He was a picture of frustration. Seemingly a victim of mischanneled talent, Perry's future was wavering.

"I don't know what happened," says the former prep All-American. "Everything just seemed to fall apart."

Now one year older and wiser, Perry has suddenly found consistency in his game. Those foolish turnovers and ill-advised shots have vanished. The Stanford fans are no longer crying "Wolfe" with futility, for the cat-quick Perry is indeed beginning to live up to their previous raves.

After the first 15 games of the season, Perry was the Card's leading scorer with 293 points, an average of 19.5 per game. He has also come up with a single game high of 34 points.

How does his coach explain this sudden emergence?

"Wolfe is playing very much under control this year," says Dick DiBiaso. "We've tried to emphasize to him that he can sometimes do more by doing less. Now he's using his one-on-one moves to his advantage and taking the shots that we work on in practice."

Perry — also a talented actor who'll appear in a television series on the PBS network this fall — agrees with his boss.

"I've finally conformed," he says with a sheepish grin. "I'm more conscious of being under control. Before, I was trying to do too much and it was detrimental to the team."

Alexander finds gold in 'Emerald Empire'

HE MAY HAVE been in the "Emerald Empire," but Juan Alexander wasn't looking for precious green stones — he was searching for gold!

Alexander of the Los Gatos Boxing Club was looking for gold in the Emerald Empire Senior Boxing Championships in Eugene, Oregon, on Jan. 6 and 7, and that's just what he found.

Alexander fought his way to a championship in his division in the rugged tournament up north. The 152 pounder won two fights, including a unanimous decision over 156 pound Jack Danielson in the finals.

Alexander was one of two fighters from the Los Gatos Boxing Club to make the trip north. Phil DiTullio also competed in Oregon and finished second in his division.

DiTullio won a unanimous decision in his first fight, but the 132 pounder lost a split decision in the finals to Rich Richardson of Portland, an "up and coming welterweight in that area," according to Los Gatos coach Gabe Marrujo.

ORIGINALLY, five Los Gatos fighters were slated to make the trip north. But because of bad weather, transportation plans had to be cancelled.

As a last resort, the two boxers and a coach were flown commercially to Eugene at great expense to the Los Gatos Boxing Club. Anyone wishing to help the local club pay for the Oregon trip can call Marrujo at 354-2914.

The Los Gatos club is looking for boys interested in joining their ranks. The boxers work out each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the wrestling gym at Los Gatos high school.

We're looking for more kids in different age brackets," said Marrujo. "It's hard work and we're looking for youngsters who are really interested in learning how to box."

The Los Gatos boxers are currently looking forward to competing in the Silver and Gold championships set for Feb. 16-17 in Reno, Nevada.
